LAND ACCESS AND RESETTLEMENT POLICY

As a leading mid-tier gold producer, Alacer Gold Corp. (the “Corporation”) is committed to undertaking its activities in a manner that encourages the development of proactive stakeholder engagement.

The Corporation believes that cases where land access and/or resettlement is required to facilitate operations, the land access and resettlement processes should be created with sustainable development objectives in mind and in a manner that respects the major life event that land access and/or resettlement may represent for the affected persons and communities.

The Corporation and its directors, officers, managers and employees will:

- Comply with all applicable laws and regulations in the jurisdictions in which the Corporation operates;
- Ensure that alternative solutions that are potentially economically and operationally viable have been assessed prior to proceeding in order to minimize and avoid displacement to the extent reasonably possible;
- Make all reasonable effort to implement voluntary resettlement through an organized process of negotiation with the affected persons and communities;
- Define clear channels and mechanisms for dialog between the Corporation and the local community in a framework that is respectful of local culture, language, processes and procedures;
- Take appropriate steps to ensure that land access and resettlement is planned and undertaken with sufficient information disclosure to enable adequate and informed stakeholder engagement and participation;
- Define a grievance mechanism to ensure any issues will be addressed promptly and transparently in a culturally appropriate manner;
- Taking into account applicable legal requirements, industry standards and the fair and reasonable expectations of the community, provide affected individuals with adequate compensation to enable them to replace what has been affected;
- Develop land access and resettlement plans that are monitored, reported on and updated as required throughout the planning and implementation of land access and resettlement activities that address physical and economic displacement impacts related to land access and resettlement; and
- Take the reasonable steps necessary to restore and endeavor to improve the standards of living of people displaced by land access and/or resettlement.
